and the lives of generations to come

About the Author:

Gwendolyn Awen Jones lectures and works internationally as a medical intuitive, spiritual teacher and healer. Her work has helped bring a sense of peace and healing to many around the world.

About the book: A CRY FROM THE WOMB

Gwendolyn has seen a pattern of illness in many of her clients relating to the loss of a child, particularly if the child was lost before full term and no transitional rites were done. Stunning case histories show why sometimes a child's Soul may not be able to reach the Light after a traumatic death because of entanglement with the grieving family. Prayers are essential to assist the Soul's transition into the Light and to ease the pain of loss for all involved. Gwendolyn carefully and compassionately explains how to do this work and also explains why it is essential to lovingly communicate with the Soul of the child during pregnancy and most importantly if the child is lost. She also explains the deep wounding that can occur to a child's Soul during pregnancy if the child is not wanted. Gwendolyn offers us the prayers that can help resolve these difficulties and assist Souls in transition. It is her deepest desire that the Souls of children who died too young and all Souls who need help may be healed. As their hearts heal, so does the Heart of the World.
